

The EUNoM project has drawn to a successful close. Co-funded by the European Union from November 2009 to October 2012 under the Lifelong Learning Programme, the European Universities' Network on Multilingualism leaves behind it a solid body of academic work and a mailing list of close to 700 people who have been involved, in one way or another, with this project or similar EU-funded projects. Please contact the project coordinator, Sr. Miquel Strubell, to be added to the googlegroups mailing list.

Virtually all of the outcomes - individual papers, symposium rapporteurs' reports, and the Final Report which includes the project recommendations - can be opened or downloaded from the EUNOM website, <http://eunom.uoc.edu>, "Results".

Our sincere thanks to Maria Badia MEP, our excellent host at the European Parliament: moltes gràcies!

The Final Conference of the EUNoM network "Globalization, Modernity and Knowledge. Opportunities and challenges in a Multilingual world", was held at the European Parliament in Brussels (Belgium) on 18 October 2012. The conference was hosted by Catalan MEP Maria Badia i Cutchet (S&D). Speakers summarised the results of all five EUNoM symposia and Glyn Williams presented the outcomes and policy recommendations derived from the EUNoM project. Keynote speakers were Piet van de Craen and Jeroen Darquennes. More information: <http://taalkunde.ehb.be/eunom>.

We are pleased to announce that the videos of the fifteen contributions to the Barcelona symposium, on "E-Learning, ICT and Languages" (May 14-15 2012) are now available on the Internet in English and Catalan versions (dubbed as appropriate):

<https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL8C538DB1B4F04251>

- Why not follow us on Twitter, like 127 other language specialists?

https://twitter.com/#eunom_network/

- Click here to see photos from all our symposia, including the final Brussels Conference:

<http://www.flickr.com/photos/59775787@N06/sets/>

Expert in the Spotlight in October 2012: Claudia Böttger

URL: <http://www.mercator-research.eu/minority-languages/expert-in-the-spotlight/claudia-boettger/>

Claudia has been an active member of the EUNoM network. After working at the Collaborative Research Centre on Multilingualism at the University of Hamburg, she moved recently to a Distance University of Applied Sciences in the same city.

This Newsletter, and the five previous ones, can be accessed here:

http://in3.uoc.edu/opencms_in3/opencms/webs/projects/EUNOM/EN/activities/index.html

You are cordially invited to disseminate it widely!